How Families Can Beat the Lines

"If you've got a large family, you've got to try the 'Babyswap' option at Disney. Your whole family stays together in line and when it is your turn, one stays with the kids too young to ride and the others go on. When the ride is over, the adult who rode gets off the ride, the adult who waited gets on, and all the others get to ride a second time without waiting in line. You just need to tell the attendant at the ride you want to babyswap and they will tell you where to wait. We did this many times, as we have a wide range of ages, yet wanted to stay together. It worked very well and the big kids loved being able to ride twice."
